50% Income Tax Hike Nixed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Senate today rejected the House-passed bill hiking the personal income tax by 50 per cent and urged that it be sent to a conference committee.

Senate Democratic leaders said they "have no problem" with the House measure that would increase the current 2.5 per cent personal income tax to 3.8 per cent.

But Sen. a Democratic Floor Leader Coleman Young of Detroit indicated his caucus wanted firmer agreement on what the money would be spent for before making a decision on the tax rate.

Sen. Alvin DeGrow, R-Pigeon, favored it.

The Senate had approved a bill hiking the tax by 33 per cent, to 3.6 per cent Aug. But the House had increased that total by three-tenths of one per cent and reinstated full questions concerning certain sections of the bill had come up.

The vote against it was 1-33. Only Sen. Alvin DeGrow, R-Pigeon, favored it.

The Senate had approved a bill hiking the tax by 33 per cent, to 3.6 per cent Aug. But the House had increased that total by three-tenths of one per cent and reinstated full property and city income tax credits, previously limited to $15.

Meanwhile, action on budget bills for the nearly 4-week-old 1971-72 fiscal year got off to a crawling start on the Senate floor.

In its first budget vote of the new year, the Senate narrowly shot down a $35.9 million grant to the Corrections Department. Reconsideration of that 19-9 vote—just one short of the total needed to send the bill to the House—was slated for later.

Opponents claimed the bill had not been enough for the Senate's not on the Appropriations Committee to make an intelligent decision. The bill was reported from the committee Friday and first discussed on the floor Monday.

Other members decried the lack of a minimal pay hike, from 20 cents a day to 25 cents, for inmates working in the prison industries program. Sen. John Toepf, R-Cadillac and a member of the Appropriations Committee, said he would prepare amendments that would pick up the extra vote needed.

Debate on a nearly $51 million appropriation for the Education Department was sidetracked after Senate Education Chairman Gilbert Burley, R-Ann Arbor, and others urged postponement. They sought more time so that Dr. John Porter, state superintendent of public instruction, could prepare a critique of the bill for all senators.

Senate Appropriations Chairman Charles O. Zoller, R-Benton Harbor, argued against the postponement, saying "no one will be happy with any budget recommendation."

"Bureaucracy is geared to more money," Zoller declared. "Every department will try to show you where you've got to give them more money." Zoller contended al-

Talks Fail; Rail Strike Gains Speed

WASHINGTON (AP) — With negotiations derailed by a continuing deadlock over work rules, the Labor Department has recessed joint talks indefinitely in a building railroad strike that may yet see congressional intervention.

Combined union-management negotiations were suspended indefinitely Monday with an announcement by W.J. User Jr., assistant secretary of labor, that "a voluntary solution cannot be reached at this time."

User indicated Sunday he thought a settlement might be near, but conceded after the talks broke off he had underestimated differences between the United Transportation Union and the four railroads over a work rule requiring crew changes every 100 miles.

Mediators planned to meet separately with management and union representatives today, but User was unwilling to predict when joint talks might resume.

PRESSURE MOUNTS

There were indications, meanwhile, of mounting pressure for legislation to force an end to the strike that has closed down the Southern, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Norfolk and Western lines.

A Labor Department spokesman said the Nixon administration has refrained from seeking strike-ending legislation have not been such to require legislation.

But User described the strike as most serious.

"It is doubly imperative in the race of mounting economic pressures," he said, "that an answer to this impasse be found."

"Other avenues toward a settlement must be considered," User said. The alternatives could include emergency legislation to end the strike, he said, but added that the administration is not drafting such a bill at this point.

CARGOES TIED UP
The walkout already has affected approximately 20 per cent of the nation's rail cargo and tied up shipments of grain, coal, food and other goods in 17 states.

The UTU says it will strike six other railroads Friday: the Atchafalaya, Topeka & Santa Fe; Alton & Southern; Houston Belt & Terminal; Duluth, Mesabi & Iron Range; Joliet & Eastern; and Bessemer and Lake Erie.

Five other lines scheduled for strikes Aug. 6 are the Baltimore & Ohio; Chesapeake & Ohio; Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific; and Missouri, Kansas and Texas.

The strike has forced some grain dealers in the St. Louis area to shut down and some coal companies have begun to feel the pinch. Other companies with alternate methods of shipping goods have continued to operate.

Oscar Hennes
BH Leader

OSCAR HENNES

Oscar Hennes, a Benton Harbor clothier for half a century, was dead on arrival at 11:20 p.m. Monday at Mercy hospital after being stricken at his home, 633 Chippewa road, Fairplain.

He was 75 years old. He had suffered a heart ailment for several years.

Mr. Hennes was president of the Hennes Co., 135 Pipestone street, oldest clothing store in the Twin Cities under continuous ownership. He entered the clothing business here shortly after returning from U.S. Navy service during World War I.

Mr. Hennes was in partnership with a brother, E. Lewis Hennes, until 1925 when the latter left the business. Oscar Hennes' son, Richard, joined the firm in 1953.

Mr. Hennes was born Jan. 12, 1896, in Benton Harbor, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Hennes.

He was a graduate of Benton Harbor high school; a member of the Lakeshore Lodge No. 298, F&AM; DeWitt Clinton Consistory and the Saladin Temple.

He was a life member of the Benton Harbor Elks lodge No. 544; a member of the Twin City

Women's Lib Strikes Again

Telling Ladies' Marital Status Would Become Federal Crime

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Bella Abzug is asking Congress to declare war on the sex prefix.

The New York Democrat, wife of a stockbroker, is doing her thing for women's liberation by preceding her signature with "Ms." She figures that can be taken for Mrs. or Miss if reference must be made at all.

But women, she said, should be considered as "individuals and not as wives of individuals." "Women are harassed daily by government interrogations as to their marital status," she told the House. "Thus, the thousands of government forms which make up red tape require women to designate Miss or Mrs., while men, apparently, are sufficiently described by the term Mr."

Each time a woman is required to designate either Mrs. or Miss, "she is reminded that her identity is perceived not only by her sex but also by her marital status," Mrs. Abzug said, but such "governmental curiosity does not apparently extend to the private lives of men."

She said there is no justification "for such idle curiosity about women. In view of the vast number of forms which must be completed by anyone associated with the United States, its elimination would do much to enhance the personal respect for the individual."

Thus, she prepared for introduction today a bill to prohibit any "instrumentality of the United States from using as a prefix to the name of any person any title which indicates marital status," as well as a resolution designating Aug. 26 as Women's Equality Day to commemorate the day in 1920 when women first won the right to vote.

Discrimination against women in employment, she said, permits supervisors to rationalize extensively—"usually on the basis that a married woman is apt to get pregnant, or she is a 'second breadwinner,' or some other unsubstantiated myth."

Under her bill, Congress, courts or any federal agency would be blocked from inquiring anyone's marital status in correspondence, records, certificates or written documents.

Faulty Switch Mars Near Perfect Trip For U.S. Spacemen

By HOWARD BENEDICT,
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 15 astronauts sped through space today toward the moon but Mission Control said an unexplained flicker in an instrument panel could prevent them from achieving a lunar landing.

The problem presented no danger to the three men.

The flashing light could indicate that one of two propulsion engine control systems might be faulty.

Astronauts David R. Scott, Fred M. Worden and James B. Irwin were directed to fire the main engine of their command ship Endeavour as planned during a scheduled midcourse correction at 4:20 p.m., EDT today.

CAN CHECK DEFECT

With the propulsion system thus activated, Mission Control would be able to monitor the system components to check for any possible defect.

One official said there was a "low probability" of finding anything seriously wrong.

The light usually indicates the service propulsion system engine is firing. It began flashing on shortly after the astronauts left earth orbit Monday on the way to the moon.

Mission Control outlined three possibilities:

"The least serious problem would be a faulty instrument. That would have no effect on the mission."

Or the engine might come on prematurely if normal procedures for firing it were used. That could be corrected by changing procedures.

At worst, the switch might pop open a circuit breaker and thereby render a back-up engine control system inoperable.

In this case, "We would be restricted to a lunar orbit mission" and the planned landing would be canceled, one official said.

Without a back-up system, Mission Control considers it too risky for Endeavour and the attached lunar lander Falcon to dip down to within nine miles of the moon prior to the lunar landing.

Scott discovered he could

JUDGE PAUL POLLARD

Paul Pollard, presiding judge of Berrien County Fifth District court, who was taken ill July 17, has been transferred to University hospital in Ann Arbor.

John Hammond, another Fifth District judge, said Judge Pollard was transferred last Tuesday from Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, to Ann Arbor, because of a kidney ailment. Judge Hammond said surgery was to have been performed, but this has been delayed.

University hospital reported today that Judge Paul Pollard was in fair condition.

Judge Pollard, 34, who resides at Berrien Springs, was admitted July 17 to Mercy hospital after complaining of an ear infection. He was transferred after further diagnosis was made.

Agnew's Renomination Under A Cloud

Three years ago Spiro T. Agnew informed a nonplussed Republican national convention that his name was not exactly a household word.

The delegates from the Southern and Southeastern states were fully acquainted with the Maryland governor, but the assembly's majority did not know him from Adam.

Since his election as Vice President, Agnew has come on strong.

Too strong really for many GOP leaders who fear the outspoken Agnew might swamp the boat next year. A quiet campaign has been building for months to find a less volatile running mate for Nixon in '72.

The decision will rest with Nixon unless circumstances change radically from what they are at present.

The only hint the President may feel he should change partners is last week's handling of the Peking meeting.

Nixon revealed the Chou En-Lai commitment while Agnew was touring the African Countries. He did not brief the Vice President on the matter. While Nixon was telling the world that Red China and the U. S. would exchange viewpoints by next May, Agnew was declaring that black militant leaders here at home might better follow what he deems the more constructive attitude of some African nationalist leaders.

Purely on a numbers count, precedent favors Agnew's retention. Only when the waters have grown excessively turbulent has a President looked elsewhere.

Thomas Jefferson shelved Aaron Burr as a running mate in 1804. Burr's intrigues against the President and the country, plus his killing of Alexander Hamilton in a pistol duel, left no choice for Jefferson's re-election hopes.

The 1864 election was critical in the war weary Northern states. Seeking to stir latent Union sentiment in the South, Lincoln substituted Andrew Johnson of Tennessee for Hannibal Hamlin of Maine.

Ulysses Simpson Grant who was a better general than he was a President had to substitute running mates. Schuyler Colfax, his 1868 Veep was deeply immersed in the financial scandals which plagued Grant's Administration. For his 1872 run Grant took on Henry Wilson.

FDR lost one running mate and had another forced upon him by his own party.

John Nance Garner, the popular Texan, rode the Roosevelt circuit in 1932 and 1936.

Ideologically he started to part company with the New Deal during his second term as Vice President.

Partly by his choice and equally by FDR's insistence, Garner retired from politics, and for his third campaign in 1940 FDR elevated Henry A. Wallace from the Agriculture to the Veep's stand.

Wallace's off beat economic theories already had irked some influential Southern Democrats and when 1944 indicated Tom Dewey would be a tougher opponent than Wendell Willkie the party satchmen told FDR he must dump Henry.

Roosevelt grudgingly accepted their suggested replacement, Harry S. Truman.

The five exceptions to the normal pattern are instances of a Veep or circumstances surrounding him getting out of White House control.

It seems safe to say that Nixon, who possesses a finely tuned political instinct, already has decided whether Agnew would be an asset or a liability next year, but has decided to let the following nine or ten months ripen that judgment more fully.

If Viet Nam winds down and the economy moves faster, Agnew will stay on. If those suns continue behind the clouds, he may be retired.

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON — The constitutional complexities over granting the vote to 18-year-olds are far from settled.

Now such liberal groups as Common Cause and the American Civil Liberties Union are seeking changes in registration traditions to enable university students to vote where they are enrolled in school.

The results could be politically revolutionary. If students are given the vote in college towns, it would put the local political balance of power in the hands of voters who pay no taxes and have little interest in municipal issues.

The move could, moreover, place in jeopardy the jobs of several conservative Republican congressmen, such as Rep.

Chalmers P. Wylie, R-Ohio, whose district includes the sprawling Ohio State University campus.

Several Democratic senators are planning to introduce legislation that would allow students to vote in federal elections where they are enrolled in school, but leave to the localities the decision on whether to allow students to vote in local elections.

But such a plan would require the establishment of two sets of registration books — the argument that recently was used for approval of the constitutional amendment giving 18-year-olds the vote in all elections.

Look for a series of court tests in the months ahead.

Two oldsters were complaining to each other about their lot. "I'm in serious trouble," sighed one. "My doctor says my hearing is failing." "So what?" sneered the other. "You can get a hearing aid. I'm the one who's REALLY in trouble. I bought Penn Central at 74!"

"You didn't write down his license number," her companion pointed out. "I'll remember," vowed Miss Smith, "149112, wasn't it?"

DR. COLEMAN

..And Speaking Of Your Health

My wife has an iron stomach. She can eat anything at any hour of the day or night. I eat the very same things and I crawl the walls with indigestion.

How do you explain this. Are some stomachs stronger than others?

Mr. J.W.F.,

W. Va.

Dear Mr. F.:

I'll whisper the beginning of my answer so as not to infuriate my male readers.

As a physician, I really believe that women generally are a harder, less complaining group of patients than men.

Now that I've said it, I'll settle back and wait to be bombarded by "Men's Lib," who may resent this statement.

Yes, I think some stomachs and intestinal tracts are less vulnerable than others, but then some people's bones are stronger than others, some have better eyesight and hearing. Variations do occur in the health of all organs.

It is more important that you concern yourself with the reasons for your indigestion, or dyspepsia, as it is sometimes known.

Many people complain of a wide variety of symptoms that are classed as "indigestion" — heartburn, a mild sense of nausea, a feeling of fullness in the upper abdomen, pressure on the chest, stomach cramps, belching, a sour taste in the mouth, even pain in the chest.

It is wrong for anyone to have one or more of such feelings any length of time without finding out the real reason for it.

Too often, patients seek their own reason for avoiding a medical examination by saying, "It's only indigestion."

It may not be, because there are so very many other conditions involving the gall bladder, the liver, the pancreas, the stomach, and the intestines that may cause similar symptoms.

When one does not have the proverbial "iron stomach," certain rules of eating may reduce simple indigestion.

Obviously, you should avoid those foods that seem not to agree with you. Avoid eating too rapidly, eating too much at one time, or eating too highly seasoned or spiced foods.

Fatty or fried foods are not as easily digested as those that are boiled and broiled.

Remember, too, that the emotions play a distinct role in digestion. People who are angry or tense while eating have difficulty digesting their food.

The normal flow of gastric juices in the stomach, which play such an important role in digestion, are affected by the emotions. They are affected, too, by excess coffee, tobacco and alcohol.

So, let us all follow some of the simple rules of sensible eating and if symptoms of "indigestion" persist, have a medical check-up to rule out other important reasons for this distress.

People with "iron stomachs" must remember that iron, too, corrodes with neglect.

Opening lead—eight of hearts. The problem of entries is a crucial factor in the play of many deals.

Declarer cannot profit from having a profusion of winners in his own hand or dummy's if there is no way of reaching them.

The defenders may likewise be faced with this difficulty. One or the other of them may have tricks that cannot be utilized because there is no entry card to the hand with the tricks.

The defenders can sometimes solve this problem by an expeditious use of their resources.

But note also that East can defeat the contract if he plays the seven of hearts on the opening lead. By permitting declarer to win the first trick, he maintains a heart contact with West that prevents South from ever making more than seven tricks.

Thus, if declarer plays a club at trick two, West wins it with the king and returns a heart to East's K-J. The race for the establishment of tricks he won by the defense and South winds up taking second money.

Hail, Noble Dog

Word has only just come that July is, or was, national hot dog month.

Better late than never. There's still time to salute the not-so-lowly wiener, frank, red hot or what have you whilst pondering these impressive statistics from the National Hot Dog and Sausage Council.

The hot dog has come a long way since it was introduced at the St. Louis Exposition in 1904. In fact, enough hot dogs are produced every year in the United States alone to reach to the moon and back 2½ times.

In 1970, Americans ate an estimated 14.8 billion hot dogs, or 72 per capita. And consumption for 1971 is projected at 15.9 billion hot dogs.

Luckily, technology has kept up with demand. A company in Detroit has a machine that can produce 62,000 dogs an hour. And there's equipment in Montreal capable of turning out 72,000 an hour.

Finally, for those who may consider hot dogs too plebeian for their tastes, be advised that hot dogs and champagne are Marlene Dietrich's favorite meal.

You can't get much classier than that.

Oil Eating Bacteria

In high school biology we learned there were both good and bad bacteria, but a variety which will eat huge gobs of oil slick on oceans and then conveniently die without leaving any harmful after effects must rank as the ultimate in good guys.

Researchers at the University of Texas are prepared to try out their oil-eating microbes on a 200-acre lake near Corpus Christi next month. Backed by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency, the bacteria already have proved themselves in the laboratory.

"Laboratory tests have shown that the bacteria can break down the oil rapidly and efficiently," reports the director of the project. The bacterial barrage is effective because the organisms eat the oil, feeding on hydrocarbons, and then die. What remains are fatty acids and other emulsified products which have no harmful effects on marine life.

The bacteria can be mass produced, freeze dried and stored. As little as a tenth of a pound of bacteria per acre of oil is sufficient to remove the oil, say the researchers.

This is an anti-pollution agent with real potential, especially if its appetite could be broadened a bit to include some of man's other discarded materials.

Petitions Rejected; One Vote Left At Lakeshore

An August 16 vote on 9.5 mills appears to be the last chance for Lakeshore schools to raise additional money for the coming school year.

This is the apparent outcome of action yesterday of the Lakeshore school board in rejecting petitions calling for an alternative to the 9.5 proposal. The board acted on advice of its attorneys, who called the petitions "not in compliance with the law and... therefore of no legal force or effect."

James F. Piechorowski, who headed the group circulating the petitions, said it would be "physically impossible" now to recirculate a petition in time for an election yet this fall.

Petitions presented to the board last week by Piechorowski's group requested a special election on two proposals: renewal of an expiring six mills and the addition of another 3.5 mills. This was proposed as an alternative to the August 16 vote on a single proposal asking for 9.5 mills.

The August election was scheduled by the board when another citizens group petitioned late last month. The split election would have been held at a later date.

CITE WORDING

The legal opinion provided to the board advised that the wording of the petitions is illegal because it asks the voters to approve a measure they cannot legally approve. As circulated, the petitions asked whether six mills and 3.5 mills should be assessed in the school district for the coming year. The legal opinion states this is "an issue upon which the electorate of the school district has no statutory authority to vote."

In sum, the opinion says, the electorate may increase the limitation but only the school board can actually levy the operating tax.

"If the increase is approved by a majority of the electors voting, the board in determining its operating budget for the year in fixing the operating tax levy may not be required to levy the full 9.5 mills," it adds.

Board President Donald Gast described the board action as an "unbiased and legal approach to the situation." He assured the Lakeshore Citizens Committee for a Reasonable, Rational Reconsideration, responsible for the petitions, "We have heard what you are saying and are determined to try to listen to both sides and work closely with the public and school system."

GOT NEW VOTERS

Supt. Lionel Stacey also praised the group, noting it had been responsible for several new registrations.

Gast revealed that the board had met privately and discussed the matter "at great length."

He said the board could have taken it upon themselves to rewrite the petition and submit the proposals to the electorate in a separate election. But referring to a decision made at the May 10 board meeting, he said "We have already said we would not ask for another election."

A statement issued by Piechorowski and Richard Fanson, president of Lakeshore Jaycees, expressed regret that "the petitions have been negated on a legal technicality in the phrasing of the petition. We must express to you our apology for bringing before you a petition so worded."

While urging the voters to turn out at the polls, the statement regretted that "We will waste at least another thousand dollars of our collective taxes bringing before ourselves an issue which was twice defeated by the electorate."

Piechorowski said legal deadlines left only a few days for circulating another petition. "If we could still get out into the streets with petitions, we would," he said.

DEFEATED TWICE

A 9.5-mill proposal for two years was defeated on March 29 by about 800 votes. A similar proposal for just one year was defeated on June 14 by 30 votes.

In other action, the board: —Approved the purchase of textbooks for classes in reading, developmental English, sociology, vocational agriculture, architectural and engineering drafting. They will cost almost $3,500.

—Granted easement to Michigan Bell Telephone Co. to install an underground cable parallel to the current I&M electric pole line behind the Stevensville elementary school on the west side of St. Joseph avenue.

—Granted leaves of absence to Mrs. Joyce Burgener, first grade teacher at Hollywood school; and Robert Husek, industrial arts teacher at the junior high school.

—Approved the omission of carpeting in the library of Baroda elementary school, as planned. The revision will save the district some $793 and was made in accordance with an earlier decision to omit carpeting in libraries of other schools in the district.

Delinquent Dad Given Jail Term

A Benton Harborite accused of failing $1,800 behind in support for one child on Aid to Dependent Children grants was ordered jailed five days Monday in Berrien circuit court.

Judge Chester J. Byrns set the jail sentence for Jesse L. Campbell, 23, of 259 Territorial road, after finding him in contempt of court for non-payment of support for one illegitimate child on ADC, according to John Schoenhals, friend of the court.

After serving the five, Campbell has 30 days to find work or return to jail for another 10 days. He also was ordered to execute a wage assignment of $10 weekly support, and $2.50 a week on the arrearage, Schoenhals reported.

Bandshell Concerts End Tonight

Twin City Pops orchestra under the direction of Robert Brown, St. Joseph High school band director, will present the final in a series of three concerts tonight at the John E. N. Howard bandshell, Port Street at Lake boulevard, St. Joseph at 7:30 p.m.

Among the selections to be presented will be "Blue Tango," "Symphony No. 2" by Haydn, excerpts from the musical "Carousel," "Londonderry Air," and the "January February March."

of all cities. Campaigning for re-election to his eighth term in office, Smith shared the lectern with the two other mayoral candidates, Charles F. Joseph and F. Joseph Flaugh.

Names of the three will appear on the ballot in next Tuesday's primary election, with the two top vote getters vying for the mayor's post in the general election Nov. 2.

The occasion Monday was the regular luncheon session of the Benton Harbor Kiwanis club at Holiday Inn, M-139. It marked the first time in the campaign that all three candidates had appeared together for talks.

Flaugh, who appeared with Joseph last week at the Benton Harbor Lions club session, again stressed that his prime effort to improve Benton Harbor would be to bring into the city new industrial plants and commercial enterprises.

Joseph outlined points in his platform and stated that plans to form a mayor's committee to coordinate all citizen efforts to improve school district relations. Joseph also said he would improve community relations by urging citizens to attend city commission sessions, read a bulletin board that he would post in city hall for community matters, and utilize a telephone pool system he would form to better inform citizens.

RECENT IMPROVEMENTS

Smith pointed to improvements made in recent years he has served as mayor. He included business and commercial development along Riverview drive, the city boat ramp, new library and post office and $300,000 spent in renovating public housing projects in the city and adjoining Benton township.

Smith spoke of improvements through the federal code enforcement program which provides grants or low interest loans to low income families to assist in bringing homes to code standard. He said 50 houses have so far been brought to standard by this program.

Smith also cited new homes, mostly on the east side, built by ARIC Homes, Inc., the Whirlpool-sponsored Highland Development Corp., Peoples Savings association and contractor Ellis Hull.

The mayor also called for immediate commission action on his proposed disclosure ordinance, aimed at forcing real estate agents to disclose to home buyers defects that would

Galbreath Asks Release

Marohn Fills Lakeshore Vacancy

The Lakeshore school board yesterday filled a vacancy on the board but delayed action in releasing one of its top administrators from his contract.

Named to a one-year term on the board was William D. Marohn, 31, of 1764 Arcadia drive, St. Joseph. He replaces R. James (Jim) Johnson, who died of cancer on June 27, a few days after he was re-elected to the board.

Marohn is employed by the Whirlpool Laundry Group as a director of product availability and serves on the board of directors of the Whirlpool Credit Union. He holds a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Toledo.

A resident of St. Joseph for seven years, he is married and the father of three children.

Marohn will serve until the regular school election next June, when a candidate will be elected to a three-year term.

Delayed by the board was a written request from William Galbreath, assistant superintendent in charge of business matters, who asked for release from his contract with the board. The contract expires

July 1, 1972. Galbreath, now vacationing in Germany, wrote that he has been offered a position with the River Valley school district.

River Valley Supt. Harold Sauer this morning said the position of assistant superintendent of River Valley schools will be made available to Galbreath if he is released from his current contract with the

Joseph Will Speak At Public Meet

Charles Joseph, candidate for mayor of Benton Harbor, will present his platform and answer questions Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Seely McCord school at a public meeting sponsored by Citizens for a United Benton Harbor. Announcement of the meeting was made by John Liskney, a campaign worker for Joseph.

Lakeshore schools.

At the suggestion of Trustee George Zinkil, the board yesterday tabled the request until Galbreath returns and the board has a chance to confer with him.

Galbreath, a native of Hartford, was acting superintendent of Lakeshore school district the first half of 1969 after the resignation of Supt. Edward J. Stafinski. He was principal of Baroda high school until 1957, when Baroda and other districts consolidated into the Lakeshore district.

Supt. Lionel Stacey said Galbreath's departure would amount to the loss of a "tremendous amount of talent" from the Lakeshore schools.

The board formally accepted the resignation of Joel R. Carr, who earlier announced his intention to leave as high school principal. He has accepted a position as superintendent of schools at Romulus, near the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, where he is completing work on a doctorate degree. Last March the board approved the contract of Jon N. Schuster to replace Carr as high school principal.

WILLIAM D. MAROHN
Asks for release

Benton Harbor city commission Monday postponed for one week a decision on allocating $3,000 to help finance two business district surveys, planned by the Benton Harbor Downtown Development committee.

Commissioner F. Joseph Flaugh recommended the delay, until the matter of city commission representation on the Downtown committee's board is resolved. The commission vote on the delay was unanimous.

Flaugh introduced the motion for the delay as chairman of the commission's legislation committee, which studied the request for $3,000. The downtown committee asked for the city funds last week, saying that it would be 20 per cent of the total $15,000 cost of the surveys. Businesses, industrial groups and professional persons have pledged the remaining

Flaugh said he has nothing against the downtown group, and encourages its work. He added, however, that the group's request means the mayor will serve as the city representative.

Under the bylaws of the Benton Harbor Downtown Development committee, the incumbent mayor of the city, regardless of who he is, would be the city's representative, according to Eitel Eberhardt, president of Inter-City bank who heads the downtown committee's steering committee.

Flaugh said it's up to the city commission to determine which of its members would serve as representative. Flaugh said the downtown group's attitude is dictatorial to the city commission. He said that for 20 per cent of the costs, the commission would name its own representative. Flaugh emphasized that he doesn't mind if incumbent Mayor Wilbert Smith gets the nod, as long as the total commission decides the matter.

Flaugh next Tuesday will oppose Smith in the city primary race for mayor, with opposition also provided by a newcomer to politics, Charles F. Joseph. The two top vote-getters will appear on the final ballot in November.

Currently, the steering committee of the Benton Harbor Downtown Development committee includes among its members City Manager Don Stewart.

The request for $3,000 in city funds was made last week by a downtown group steering committee member, J. Howard Edwards, who also is executive director of Area Resources Improvement Council (ARIC).

The surveys are planned to determine economic factors and design methods required to help rejuvenate the downtown.

In another financial matter, the commission voted to sell for $1,500 a city-owned lot at the intersection of three streets, McGuigan, Packard and McCord. The buyer, Samuel Hayes and Sons, contractors, plan to build a new home on the lot.

The commission also voted to terminate a housing lease contract between the city and Kuschel Realty Co., regarding a house at 697 Green avenue. Smith said he was pleased about this, because Kuschel stated that occupants of the house now plan to purchase it from the realty firm. The house was leased under a program involving relocation of low income families and sponsored locally by the Benton Harbor and Benton township public housing commission. Smith indicated that purchase of the house by its occupants reflects a step upward for that family.

The commission also: —Voted to advertise for bids for the purchase of two new police department paddy wagons, for a packer and chassis, a dump truck chassis, and a pickup truck. The paddy wagons would replace two similar vehicles now in service. The police department also has six marked patrol cars and three unmarked autos in the detective pool.

—Approved a taxicab license to Ace Cab Lines, owned by Leroy Lee. Commissioner Edward Merrill said the firm has three cabs. He said one is set for use, but the others must be repaired to meet inspection standards.

—Approved a request by the Navy Mothers Club, unit 164, for a street tag day sale Sept. 10-11.

Zoning For Fruit Stand Asked In SJ

A request to re-zone property on Cleveland avenue for a new vegetable and fruit stand was referred to the planning commission for study last night by the St. Joseph city commissioners.

Making the request for re-zoning of the lot was Don TeRoller, of 2708 Lake View avenue, St. Joseph. The zoning involves a 260 foot lot part of which is occupied by the Kwik Clean Car Wash at 2434 Cleveland avenue. TeRoller is the owner of the property. Although zoned commercial, the property's current classification does not permit a fruit stand.

In other business, the commissioners approved first reading of a petition for alley paving from Forres avenue to Nile avenue between the 1600 and 1700 blocks of Forres avenue.

Also approved was a request from the Navy Mothers Club of America No. 164 of the Twin Cities for the annual Sailor Boy tag sale on Friday, Sept. 10.

Coloma Eyes Rate Increase

COLOMA—Higher sewer rates for Coloma city residents were introduced at last night's commission meeting here.

The new rates represent a increase of $10 per quarter, (every three months) for the average user of 25,000 gallons for the quarter period.

The amended ordinance is expected to be adopted at the August 9 commission meeting and become effective August 30.

City Commissioner Fred Munchow, who heads the city's water committee said, "The new rates will pay for the city's share of the proposed Paw Paw Lake Sewage treatment plant and river interceptor."

The charges for sewer service will be measured by water consumption as shown by city water meters.

For the first 5,000 gallons or less, there will be a minimum quarterly rate of $12.50. The old rate for the first 6,000 gallons carried a minimum of $5 per quarter.

Sewer charges outside the city will be one hundred and fifty per cent above the city residents charge, plus $5 per quarter.

In other business, Consumers Asphalt Paving Co., Benton Harbor, was the apparent low bidder among three opened for blacktopping Paw Paw street from Center to North street.

The bid of $17,737.50 was accepted by the commission for the project, which had been estimated at $15,000.

The blacktopping project is slated to begin after the Coloma consumption as shown by city water meters.

Other bidders on the project were Klett Construction, Hartford, $18,716.50 and John G. Yerington, Benton Harbor, $19,529.

City commissioners set the compensation for the proposed city charter commission members at $10 per meeting, not to exceed $120. The commission will be charged with revising the 29-year city charter if Coloma voters approve the proposal in November.

Commissioners approved hiring Coloma police officer Lloyd Carr as a fulltime city employee effective July 29, after he successfully passed his probationary period.

LMC Trustees Give Bookstore Pat On Back

By JERRY KRIEGER
County-Farm Editor

The bookstore at Lake Michigan college, a target of complaints when students went on strike at the school in the spring of 1970, got an official commendation from the board of trustees last night.

The complaints ended with the strike apparently, for Executive Vice President Walter Browne told the trustees at their July meeting not a single formal complaint was filed in 1970-71 with a special bookstore review committee set up in the wake of the strike.

William Niemi, vice president for business affairs, reported the bookstore, operated as a concession by a private bookstore chain, Follett Corp., had paid the school $3,450 in rental for the past year.

While that sum probably didn't represent a "profit" to the college—because the school provides the space, heat and light—Niemi said the concession operation takes a big burden off the college. He said the college would be "hard-pressed" to finance the $100,000 to $200,000 inventory required and to hire the personnel required.

When the college turned the bookstore over to the private operation some years ago, the school had been losing money on it.

Trustee Robert Small proposed the resolution of commendation for the concessionaire, and the five board members present approved it unanimously.

Niemi told the trustees the financial audit for the fiscal year ending June 30 has not been completed yet, but that it appears the college finished the year in the black and probably will have a small balance on hand. The auditor's report should be ready for the August 23 board meeting, Niemi stated.

Browne, reporting in the absence of President James Lehman, said there are three faculty positions still to be filled and one top administrative position. Teaching spots open yet were for a French-Spanish language instructor, a biology instructor and a chemistry teacher. The administrator's job open is vice president for student activities. He also said C.T. Richards, a member of the community services department staff, has resigned, effective Aug. 30, to study for a doctoral degree.

Classes for the fall semester are scheduled to start Aug. 23, and the faculty is to report back on Aug. 16.

The trustees approved a total expenditure of $12,800 to enlarge an old spring-fed irrigation pond on the campus property.

Maurice Strandberg, LMC construction supervisor, said the pond is being increased about 50 per cent in area. The excavation apparently is tapping new underground springs and increasing the flow of 55-degree water that in turn flows into the big artificial lake surrounding the "island campus". This additional cool water is helpful, as the lake serves as the coolant for the college air conditioning system, Strandberg pointed out.

With the Phase II building program completed, except for a few minor items, the trustees reduced the final sum withheld from the contractor, Pearson Construction Co., from $50,000 to $55,000.

A resolution accepting the four Phase II buildings from the contractor set the dates of "substantial completion" as Feb. 21 for the administrative building, May 23 for both the science and fine arts classroom wing and the gymnasium, and June 21 for the lecture hall. These dates mark the start of one-year warranty periods for the structures.

Buchanan Extends Benefits

BUCHANAN — The Buchanan city commission last night agreed to extend longevity benefits to all municipal employees.

The benefit schedule, which grants workers up to $350 in additional pay each year, was included in a contract signed May 6 with the Buchanan Policemen's association.

The money will be paid in lump sums to employees each Dec. 15.

In other business, the commission authorized final payment of $750 to the Wilcox Construction Co., Buchanan, for installation of an air conditioning system in city hall.

City Treasurer Raymond Suabedissen was authorized to use $2,000 from the contingency fund to pay the city's share for new police radio equipment, which will tie the department into a county-wide communications system.

The commission approved a resolution which will allow Mr. and Mrs. Walter Karpinski use of the unimproved portion of McCumber street, south of Third street. The Karpinskis said they planned to purchase property on McCumber for construction of a single-family dwelling.

A traffic control order, restricting parking on the south side of Alexander street, was approved by the commission. Residents in the area requested the permanent ban following a trial period.

Mayor Joseph Bachman was elected as a delegate to attend the annual business meeting of the Michigan Municipal League, Sept. 3, on Mackinac Island. Richard Gault was named alternate.

A contribution of $50 from the Buchanan Garden Club was accepted by the commission and will be used for planting of flower beds on city hall grounds.

Mayor Bachman reported that the Buchanan Lions club plan to contribute four metal benches for use by the city.

$5,000 Homestead Exemption Favored By GOP, Says Gast

LANSING — State Rep. Harry Gast, Jr., R-Stevensville, said a bill among a number of property tax relief proposals that has attracted interest of most Republican members of the House is one that would give a $5,000 homestead exemption.

Introduced by House Minority Leader Clifford H. Smart of Walled Lake, it would exempt all Michigan residents from paying taxes on the first $5,000 of equalized valuation on their homestead property.

The effect of this proposal would be that a person with a home with a $10,000 market value—and equalized at $5,000 —would pay no property taxes. Persons with more expensive dwellings would pay property taxes only on the amount above the exempted valuation.

The revenue lost through this program, estimated at $640 million, would be replaced by income taxes.

Gast said he and many of the House Republicans believe this will provide "the essential equity which is currently missing from our taxation structure."

"It will spread the tax burden more fairly, and relieve the property owner of his disproportionate share of supporting government programs."

The Stevensville legislator added that a number of Democratic members of the House also were interested in the bill.

Achieving property tax reform by legislative act rather than through a constitutional amendment is attractive, according to Gast. It takes only 56 votes to pass a bill in the House, but it takes 74 votes to approve a constitutional change.

Gast, in a report to his constituents back home, said exemption of the first $5,000 of equalized valuation on a homestead could not suddenly be doubled later by increasing the equalized value to 100 per cent of market value. The state constitution limits equalized valuation of real property to 50 per cent of market value.

He did point out one problem area. The bill, as written, applies only to homesteaded property. This does not offer relief for business property and for persons who have property in addition to their homestead.

Gast said the Republicans eye this approach as an alternative, and consider an amendment to the state constitution as a more permanent guarantee of property tax reform.

In his report to the home folks, Gast also made note of an interesting approach by an Upper Peninsula legislator to fight reopening of antlerless deer hunting in the UP. The U.P. legislator is suing the Department of Natural Resources on the basis of the law that allows citizens to sue persons, industries or government agencies for alleged destruction of natural resources.

Dowagiac Class Of 1931 Tells Reunion Plans

All class members and their families are invited to attend the dinner and "gab-fest" scheduled for the occasion. For further information call Angle at his home after 6 p.m.

Dies In Accident

MONROE, Mich. (AP) — An industrial accident at the Monroe plant of Consolidated Packaging Corp. Monday took the life of Otis Dyke, 60.

CAR HITS TREE

Union Pier Youth Killed In Crash

SAWYER — A 19-year-old Union Pier youth early this morning drove his car beyond the end of Minnich road, at the Sawyer road intersection, and was killed when the car struck a tree.

Another 19-year-old youth riding in the car was seriously injured.

Killed was Robert Keith Burns of Union Pier. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. John Valantiejus, Berrien county assistant medical examiner at 2:10 a.m. today.

His death brings the 1971 Berrien county traffic fatalities to 29.

Ronald James Clemons of Three Oaks, a passenger in the car, was reported in serious condition this morning at St. Anthony's hospital in Michigan City, Indiana. He is being treated for a fractured hip, a dislocated hip and multiple lacerations over his entire body. State troopers from the New Buffalo post said Burns apparently was driving at a high speed as he approached the end of Minnich road at its intersection with Sawyer road and was unable to stop.

The car left the road and skidded for 35 feet before stopping against a tree.

Burns was born Jan. 26, 1952, in Huntington, Ind. He was graduated this year from River Valley High school.

He had resided in the Union Pier area 11 years, coming from Michigan City and was employed at the Hudson Filling Station in New Buffalo.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. William (Mae) Zboril Jr., of Union Pier; his father, Keith Burns of Columbia City, Ind.; a step-sister, Sherry of Columbia City and his grandmother, Mrs. Paul (Mabel) Simmons of Columbia City.

Friends may call at the Smith funeral home, New Buffalo, until noon Wednesday. The body will be taken to the Smith funeral home, Columbia City where services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday. Burial will be in South Whitley cemetery, South Whitley, Ind.

Schools Open Aug. 31

BERRIEN SPRINGS—Classes will begin at all four schools of the Berrien Springs school district on Tuesday, Aug. 31, according to Lee Auble, schools superintendent.

Teachers will be at the schools on Monday, Aug. 30, to prepare for classes and counsel with students or parents and principals will be in their offices during the preceding week to register students who will be attending school in the district for the first time, Auble added. Students who were enrolled last year have already pre-registered.

Vacations during the coming school year include Nov. 25 and 26, Dec. 18 to Jan. 2, March 25 to April 2, with the summer vacation beginning June 9, Auble said.

School Tax Reduced By Decatur Board

DECATUR — The Decatur school board fashioned a small bit of good news for residents here last night, reducing school taxes by 1/4 mill.

The board, acting on the recommendation of Supt. Wayne Hellenga, pared the district's debt retirement levy from 6.5 to 6 mills. The district's tax levy for the coming year will total 28.18 mills, with 8.68 allocated; 11.50 voted operating; 2.00 building and site and the 6.00 for debt retirement.

The board accepted the bid of Clarence Oatman, Decatur, who will supply gasoline to the district during 1971-72. Oatman, one of two bidders, will deliver regular gasoline for 14.95 cents a gallon and high test for 21.00.

The bid of Producers Creamery, Benton Harbor, on half-plats of white milk at 7 cents and chocolate at 7.2, was also accepted.

ESCAPES INJURY: Carol Ann Murfield, 20, Route 2, Bangor, escaped injury yesterday when she jumped from this stalled car just moments before it was struck by an oncoming train at 3:15 p.m. yesterday at the Maiden lane crossing in St. Joseph township, south of St. Joseph. Engineer Carl Strong of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad told Berrien county sheriff's police that he saw the car on the tracks but could not stop in time. (Staff photo)
